Black Business Month, celebrated in August, highlights and supports Black-owned businesses. It serves as a platform to recognize the contributions of Black entrepreneurs, promote economic empowerment, and encourage the patronage of Black-owned businesses. Throughout the month, there may be events, initiatives, and campaigns aimed at raising awareness about the importance of supporting and investing in Black-owned enterprises to foster economic growth and equity.

National Immunization Awareness Month (NIAM) is observed in August in the United States. This month serves as a reminder to highlight the importance of vaccinations and promote awareness about the benefits of immunizations for people of all ages. The campaign aims to encourage individuals to stay up-to-date on their vaccinations to protect against various preventable diseases. NIAM emphasizes the role of vaccines in maintaining public health and preventing the spread of infectious diseases within communities.

Intersectionality is when someone identifies with two or more marginalized groups whether gender or race. By understanding everyone's personal experience with identity, we become a more diverse and inclusive world.

Purple Heart Day on August 7 is the kind of day created to give back. It's a day for Americans to remember and honor the men and women who bravely represented their country and were wounded or killed whilst serving.
