Goals of Title IX Processes

- Prompt and equitable resolution of Title IX Sexual Harassment matters
 - For parties and other affected individuals
 - In compliance with institutional legal obligations and
 - While reflecting institutional values

HUSCH BLACKWELL Where does our work have an impact? Parties/witnesses Institutional Broader community stakeholders Decision-makers (hearing and appeal officials) U.S. Department of Education (ED) · Looks primarily to regulatory compliance Office for Civil Rights Look to whether institutional response is "deliberately indifferent," whether process is free Courts of discrimination, and whether related legal obligations are met (due process; free speech)

JSCH BLACKWEL

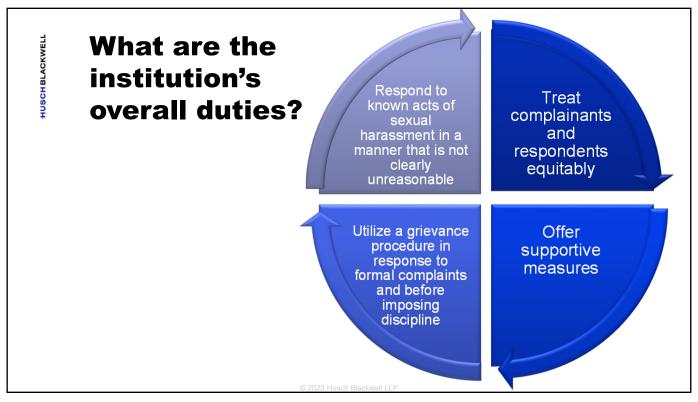

What is Title IX?

"[N]o person in the United States shall on the basis of sex be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

32 C.F.R. § 106.31

© 2023 Husch Blackwell I I E

HUSCH BLACKWELL

To which entities does Title IX apply?

Entities that receive federal financial assistance, including colleges and universities that participate in U.S. Dept. of Ed. Federal Student Aid funding

- · Not individual persons
 - But institutions are required to adopt policies and procedures to implement Title IX that do apply to individual persons

HUSCH BLACKWELL

Two Main Types of Sex Discrimination

- Adverse treatment involves adverse action that is motivated by the target's sex and that directly limits or excludes the target from participation in education program or activities
 - Usually by someone in a supervisory or authoritative position
- Sexual harassment involves
 - · Unwelcome conduct that is
 - · Either sexual in nature or sex based and
 - Quid pro quo; hostile environment; sexual assault; or domestic violence, dating violence, stalking
 - Sexual harassment is currently subject to more elaborate regulations governing investigation and determination

Example: Sexual Harassment

17

What is the scope of Title IX's reach?

 Title IX applies to sex discrimination in the "education program or activity" of a federal funding recipient

 Title IX defines "education program or activity" to include the "operations" of educational institutions

 Title IX does not apply to private conduct occurring in private location that is not part of education program/activity

Does Title IX apply to sexual harassment in other countries?

- No the Department of Education interprets Title IX to apply only within the geographic boundaries of the United States
- But sexual harassment that occurs abroad could "contribute" to a hostile environment on campus

© 2023 Husch Blackwell I I P

CHBLACKWELL

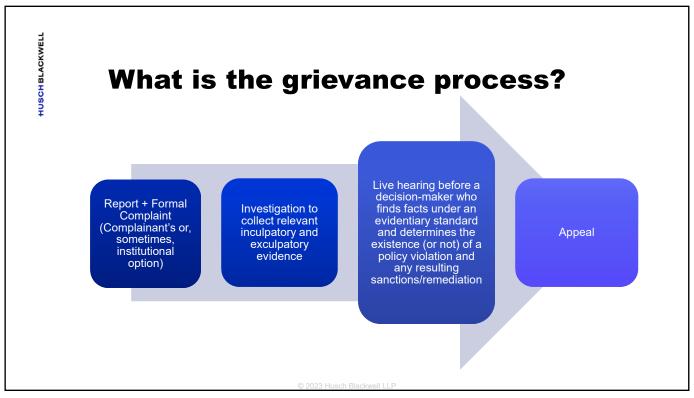

What other policies might apply?

- Institutions are free to use
 - Student code of conduct
 - Faculty/employee handbooks
 - · Other policies

to address sexual harassment that does not occur in an education program or activity

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLF

25

ISCH BLACKWEL

When must we dismiss a Title IX complaint?

- Alleged sexual harassment occurred outside education programs or activities
- Alleged misconduct could not be sexual harassment even if true
- Complainant is not a current participant in education programs and activities at time of complaint

© 2023 Husch Blackwell I I D

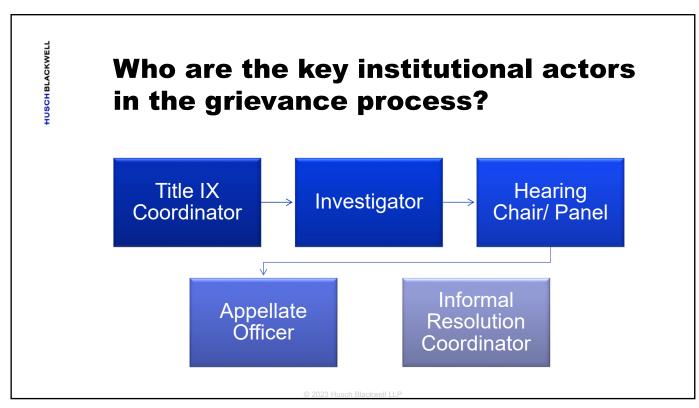

When may we dismiss a Title IX complaint?

- Complainant withdraws allegations in writing
- Respondent is no longer employed or is no longer a student
- Specific circumstances prevent the institution from gathering evidence sufficient to reach a determination

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLF

27

What general principles govern the grievance process?

- Equitable treatment of complainants and respondents
- Presumption respondent did not violate policy unless and until a determination is made after hearing
- No stereotypes based on a party's status as complainant or respondent
- Conflict and bias-free institutional participants
- Trauma-informed

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

29

CHBLACKWEL

Who is responsible for identifying conflicts of interest and bias?

Title IX Coordinator or designee oversees grievance process and must address known or reported conflicts of interest/bias

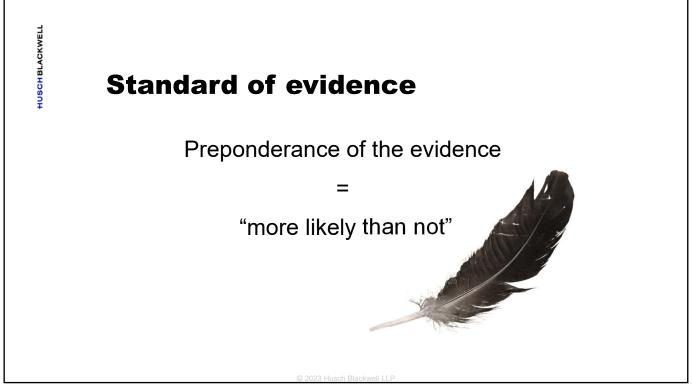

Institution must also permit parties to raise concerns of conflicts of interest and bias

*Individual institutional actors should self-police conflicts of interest and self-identify bias

© 2023 Husch Blackwell I I P

What is a conflict of interest?
When an individual has a material connection to a dispute, or the parties involved, such that a reasonable person would question the individual's ability to be impartial
May be based on prior or existing relationships, professional interest, financial interest, prior involvement, and/or nature of position

31

HUSCH BLACKWELL

What is quid pro quo?

- An employee of the institution conditions the provision of some aid, benefit, or service on another person's participation in unwelcome sexual conduct
 - Often arises in the employment context or where an employee holds a position of authority over a student

© 2023 Husch Blackwell I I P

37

What factors could suggest systematic discrimination? Repeated and pervasive conduct Reduction in academic performance Need to transfer class Conduct prompts others to harass/discriminate Disruption in class Need for counseling Others????

USCHBLACKWE

Does refusal to use chosen names and pronouns create a hostile environment?

- Federal law does not (presently) mandate the use of chosen (a/k/a "preferred") names or pronouns for any student (cisgender, transgender, or otherwise)
- But the refusal to use chosen names and pronouns based on protected status and/or the use of non-chosen names and pronouns based on protected status may constitute discrimination or harassment based on the facts

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

USCH BLACKWELI

What about the First Amendment or other "free speech"?

While sexual harassment can be verbal or written in nature, sexual harassment under Title IX does not include conduct that is protected by the First Amendment

The subjective offensiveness of speech, alone, is not sufficient to create a hostile environment

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

The Title IX Religious Exemption

- Title IX "does not apply to an educational institution which is controlled by a religious organization to the extent application of [Title IX] would not be consistent with the religious tenants of such organization." 20 U.S.C. § 1681(a)(3)
- Nuanced application
- Title VII and state law may prohibit employment discrimination (classic discrimination and failure to accommodate absent undue hardship) based on sincerely held religious beliefs at public and private institutions

Does Title IX also prohibit retaliation?

Yes – Title IX prohibits intimidation, threats, coercion, or discrimination against any individual for the purpose of interfering with any right or privilege secured by Title IX and its implementing regulations or because an individual has made a report or complaint, testified, assisted, participated in or refused to participate in any manner in an investigation, proceeding, or hearing under the institution's policy.

Group Scenario

Charlie Complainant is a transgender man studying abroad in Italy through the University's language program. Riley Respondent is a female student studying abroad in the same program. Over the course of the semester, Riley misgenders Charlie during every conversation they have, which is usually at least once a day.

For the first couple of months, Charlie corrected Riley and let her know he was uncomfortable with being misgendered. After the conduct continued, however, Charlie stopped correcting Riley and began avoiding classes and activities in the study abroad program so he would not have to see or interact with Riley.

After the study abroad program ends, Charlie and Riley return to the University's main campus where he learns from a friend that Riley has been telling people stories about their study abroad trip, and in those stories, Riley always misgenders Charlie.

Charlie is distraught and ultimately withdraws from the University. A month after he withdraws, he contacts the Title IX Coordinator to file a Formal Complaint against Riley for Hostile Environment Sexual Harassment.

- Explain your reasoning
- Include the good/bad/ugly
 - E.g., explain decisions about conflicting information (E.g., "As discussed above, there is some evidence suggesting that [X], but the preponderance of the evidence supports a finding [of the opposite of X]")
- Address sanctions/remediation

What are the general principles of an investigation?

- Investigator has an independent duty to collect relevant inculpatory and exculpatory evidence
- Parties must have sufficient notice to prepare and meaningfully participate
- Parties have an equal opportunity to present their statements, evidence, and to identify witnesses
- Parties have equal opportunity to review and comment on evidence developed
- Investigation is evidence-gathering; not fact-finding

What is a formal complaint?

- Signed writing
- From the alleged victim or the Title IX Coordinator;
- Alleging sexual harassment;
- Indicating desire to initiate the grievance process (i.e., investigation and hearing).

How do we tell the parties about an investigation?

 Institution must provide the parties written notice of a formal complaint that includes sufficient details about the "who, what, when, where, and how" before investigating

HUSCHBLACKWELL

What else does the notice need to say?

- Written notice must also include:
 - Statement of presumption respondent is not responsible unless and until a determination is made at the end of the process
 - That parties have the right to an advisor of their choice
 - That parties have the right to inspect and review evidence
 - Any prohibition on providing knowingly false statements or information

Can we gather any information prior to the written notice?

- Yes, but only to the extent necessary to determine how the case will proceed
- Typically, this "preliminary inquiry" would involve identifying the putative victim and understanding the scope of the allegations
- Information gathering that seeks to determine whether the allegations are true is investigatory and should await the written notice

May an investigation collect evidence on sexual history?

Generally, no – Evidence of a complainant's prior sexual behavior is relevant only if offered to prove that someone other than the respondent committed the conduct, or if evidence of specific incidents of the complainant's prior sexual behavior with the respondent are offered to prove consent

Professor is up for tenure review. Before resigning, Fellow worked in Professor's research lab. When asked about Professor during the tenure review process, Fellow informed the tenure review committee that Professor had once thrown items at Fellow in the lab and that Professor expects unreasonably long hours of fellows because of Professor's cultural background. The committee nevertheless recommended promotion.

Two days later, Fellow reported to the Title IX coordinator that Professor "raped" Fellow, and that the two later engaged in a secret consensual sexual relationship. More specifically, Fellow said that Professor invited Fellow to the lab one night and began kissing and groping Fellow; and that, after forcefully trying to push Professor away, Fellow agreed to engage in further sexual relations that night and they had a secret affair thereafter.

After receiving notice of a rape allegation, Professor denies sexual contact with Fellow, consensual or otherwise. Professor alleges that, before Fellow filed the complaint, a colleague heard Fellow threaten to interfere with Professor's tenure process. Professor claims to have not been on campus on the day/night Fellow alleges rape. Professor alleges that another student told Professor that Fellow had lobbied to keep peers out of Professor's lab during the time Fellow claims the two were in a consensual relationship. When asked to provide a list of all days when he was present on campus, Professor asks for counsel.

The Hearing

USCHBLACKWELL

What is the purpose of the hearing?

- To hear testimony and receive non-testimonial evidence so that
- The decision-maker can determine facts under a standard of evidence
- · Apply those facts to the policy, and
- Issue a written determination resolving the formal complaint and imposing discipline/remedial measures as necessary

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

SCHBLACKWEL

Who is the "decision-maker"?

- A single hearing officer; or
- A hearing panel led by a chair

© 2023 Husch Blackwell I I P

147

HUSCH BLACKWELL

What standard of evidence can be used?

- Either
 - Preponderance of the evidence OR
 - Clear and convincing evidence
- Institution must select a standard and apply it uniformly in all cases, regardless of the identity of the respondent

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLF

HUSCH BLACKWELL

What happens before the hearing?

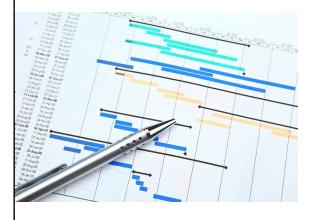

- Parties are provided the final investigation report at least 10 days prior to the hearing
- "Decision-maker" must be identified and clear conflicts of interest assessment
- Hearing must be scheduled and logistics arranged
- Witnesses must be notified
- · Pre-hearing conference should be held

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLF

HUSCHBLACKWELL

How do we schedule a hearing?

- Set aside sufficient time considering the nature and complexity of the case
- Consider class and work schedules of parties and key witnesses to avoid conflicts
- Consider pre-scheduling a backup or "spill over" date in the event the hearing runs long or must be continued
- Provide letters excusing parties and witnesses from other obligations, as necessary

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

HISCHRI ACKWEI

How do we notify parties and witnesses?

- Institution must provide written notice to the parties of time and place of hearing
- Institution should provide written notice to witnesses requesting their presence
- Notice may be issued by the decision-maker or another institutional official in coordination with decision-maker

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

USCHBLACKWELL

What is a pre-hearing conference?

- A meeting with the parties, decisionmaker, and other necessary officials to:
 - · Address logistical issues and concerns
 - Discuss the sequence of the hearing and rules of decorum
 - Hear and resolve objections or concerns that can be addressed in advance
 - Take up other issues that will ensure hearing time is focused on testimony

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLF

HUSCHBLACKWELL

What are other considerations?

- The pre-hearing conference can be two separate meetings—one with each party and advisor; but follow up notification may be required
- The pre-hearing conference can be conducted virtually
- Advisors should be allowed to attend although their role can still be passive if the institution desires
- The pre-hearing conference is not required but is a best practice that facilitates a smooth hearing

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLF

HUSCHBLACKWELL

How does the hearing actually work?

- Title IX regulation is largely silent on specific elements
- Required elements in the regulation include:

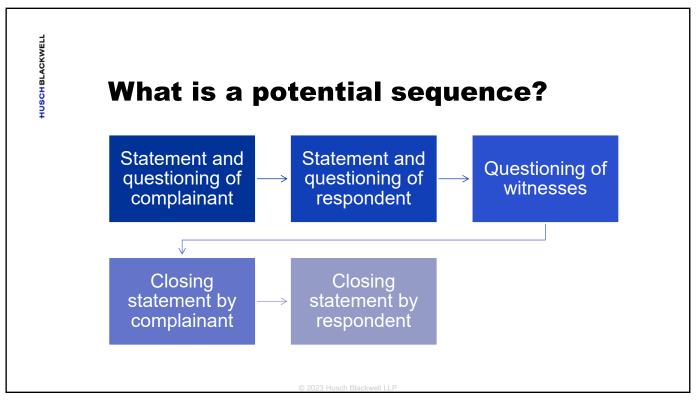

Decision-maker(s) must independently evaluate questions for relevance and resolve relevancy objections

Parties' advisors must be allowed to conduct live questioning of other parties and witnesses

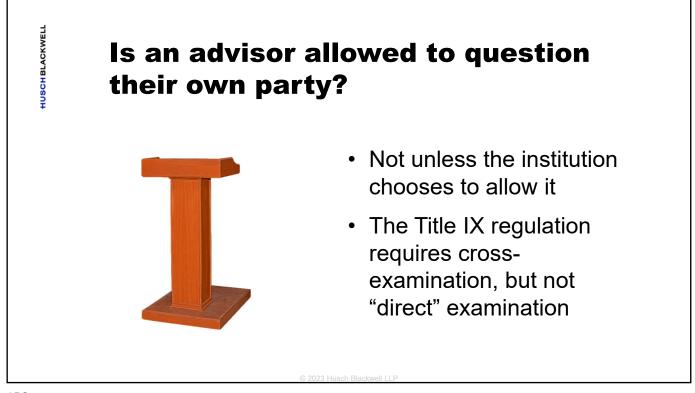

EXCLUSIONARY RULE NO LONGER IN FORCE

Questioning of sexual history generally not permitted

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

HUSCH BLACKWELL

Is an advisor required to ask questions a party wants asked?

- Advisors should consult with their party and consider their preferences for what questions to ask

- An advisor may consult the decision-maker if a party demands the advisor ask a question that advisor is uncertain is appropriate

Are there "objections" at hearings?

- Institution may limit the right of objection to a party

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

HUSCHBLACKW

How do(es) the decision-maker(s) decide a case?

After hearing, decision-maker(s) must deliberate and consider all the admissible testimony and admissible non-testimonial evidence

Evaluate evidence for weight and credibility

Resolve disputed issues of fact under the standard of evidence adopted by the institution

Using the facts as found, apply the policy's definitions to those facts to determine whether sexual harassment occurred

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLI

HUSCH BLACKWELL

Assessment of credibility

- Line up facts relevant to credibility
- Factors (among others)
 - Plausibility—Is the testimony believable and does it make sense?
 - Specificity
 - Motive to falsify—Does the person have a reason to lie (other than mere status as party)?
 - Corroboration/consistency/contrary evidence—Is there testimony or evidence that corroborates the witness account? Are the witness accounts consistent? Are inconsistencies explained? Is there evidence disputing the witness account?
 - Past Record—Does the person have a history of similar behavior?

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

HUSCHBLACKWE

How do(es) the decision-maker(s) issue a decision?

- In a written document, provided contemporaneously to the parties that:
 - · Identifies the allegations of sexual harassment
 - Describes the various procedural steps taken from the time the formal complaint was made
 - States findings of facts supporting the determination
 - Reaches conclusions regarding application of relevant policy definitions to the facts
 - · Includes a rationale for each finding for each allegation
 - States the disciplinary sanctions and remedies, if implicated by the determination made, and
 - Explains the procedures and grounds for appeal

© 2023 Husch Blackwell LLP

169

Who determines discipline and remediation?

- Some institutions will have the decisionmaker(s) also impose discipline
- Others may refer a disciplinary authority with jurisdiction over the respondent (i.e., Dean of Students, Provost, Director of Human Resources, etc.)
- If referred to someone else, that must occur before the written determination is issued

- Impact statement
- Conduct during the investigation and adjudication (cooperative or less than cooperative)

To recap ...

Audrey is a student in University's nursing program and she is 8 months pregnant. She has frequent medical appointments and has missed several classes in Professor's Microbiology course due to pregnancy complications.

After missing multiple in-class quizzes and participation points due to medical appointments, Audrey has a grade of C in Professor's course. She informs Professor that she is pregnant and requests alternative arrangements for tests and quizzes on days that she feels ill or has an appointment scheduled. Professor declines Audrey's request.

Audrey ultimately fails the course after missing her final exam due to emergency pregnancy complications. Audrey emailed Professor after the exam, but Professor refused to reschedule the final exams for her.

Audrey files a Title IX Complaint against Professor, which goes to a hearing. During the hearing, it is revealed that Audrey also informed her other professors at the University of her pregnancy. Though those professors helped modify their courses for her, none of the professors provided Audrey with the Title IX Coordinator's contact information.

New Option: Combined Investigator/Decision-Maker Model

- Proposed regulation would allow a combined investigation/decision making model
- But, with more robust rights of the parties to pose questions through the investigator
- · Proposed regulation would provide:
 - If not using a live hearing
 - Must allow parties to propose relevant and not otherwise impermissible questions and follow up questions for any party or witness

@ 2023 Husch Blackwell I I I

Institution moves to a single investigator/decision-maker model. Investigator completes investigation, provides the parties with access to evidence and an opportunity to submit proposed questions to pose to the other party and witnesses. Investigator then schedules follow-up meetings with each party/witness for whom additional questions have been submitted. Investigator provides any new evidence to the parties and an opportunity to respond. Investigator then proceeds with a determination, consulting others as appropriate to decide any discipline/remediation.

Graduate Institution has only 40 students, each an adult engaged in highly specialized scientific research. The vast majority of employees at Graduate Institution are physicians or PhDs. Graduate Institution has had Title IX processes in place under a preponderance of the evidence standard for years, as well as required education for all stakeholders. Graduate Institution has had one Title IX Sexual Harassment complaint, which was a clear violation. Graduate Institution amends its policy to match its other existing disciplinary policies, requiring that policy violations be established by clear and convincing evidence.
