

Dr. Abigail Heiniger, Assistant Professor of Literature and Languages and Department Chair, teaches literature and writing at LMU. She holds a BA in English and two MAs in English and Humanities from the University of Louisville, in Kentucky, and she has a Ph.D. in Literature from Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan.

Before coming to LMU, Dr. Heiniger taught a literature, composition, gender studies, and fairy tales at Bluefield College, Lawrence Technological University, Wayne State University, and the University of Louisville. She enjoys bringing nineteenth-century advertisements and artifacts to class.

Dr. Heiniger's book Jane Eyre's Fairytale Descendants: Constructions and Deconstructions of National Identity was published with Routledge in 2016. Her recent articles in Marvels and Tales (2017) and Contemporary Magic (2019) are part of her new book project in disenchanting fairytales by marginalized writers.

She lives in Cumberland Gap and enjoys kayaking on the Powell River by her house and watching the sunrise over the mountains.
