

Dr. Richard Vogel, Assistant Professor in Media Communication, is starting his sixth year at LMU. Prior to his time here, he was a consulting producer to an award winning news program and a writer, producer and director of a number of videos for corporate and public service announcements. He teaches a range of writing, production and theory courses and has advised a skit comedy show.